About the Societies

CSPS

The Canadian Society for Pharmaceutical Sciences is a not-for-profit organization which supports and promotes the dissemination of research, education, training, networking and collaboration between life science scientists. The Society achieves this by providing educational activities, networking with government agencies and maintaining a connection with the pharmaceutical industry through trade association partnerships.

CRS
Leading Canadian Delivery Science and Technology

The Canadian Chapter of the Controlled Release Society is the home for experts dedicated to delivery science, including delivery scientists, engineers, clinicians, and technical professionals.

About the Symposium

June 10-13, 2024

In 2024, the Symposium will be held at the University of Alberta in Edmonton and will bring together leading scientists and organizations from both Societies to explore new horizons in life sciences and pharmaceutical excellence.

Industry Day will highlight The Path to Commercialization and Partnerships providing a dedicated forum for industry representatives to share their unique perspectives.

The scientific sessions will offer in depth discussions and insights on topics including:

- Artificial Intelligence (AI) in Pharmaceutical Sciences R & D
- Epigenetics and Drug-Target Chemogenomics and Chemogenetics
- Neglected Global Diseases
- Intermediary Metabolism as a Target for Pharmacotherapy
- Medicinal Chemistry
- Trainee Session
- Advanced Drug Delivery
- Young Investigator, and CC-CRS Session

Attendee Profile

Greater than 200 participants
Key opinion leaders from the pharmaceutical sciences community

Academia, regulators, pharmaceutical executives, scientists, researchers, and trainees

Trainees representing the Canadian schools of pharmacy
